A via ferrata is an iron ladder that allows individuals to traverse heights that would otherwise be inaccessible. The name derives from the Italian words via (way) and ferrea (iron). There are several variations, including via da ponte, a via ferrata secured by a metal ladder placed over the outside of an arch; stiletto and rammappa are variations found on the staircase of a house, typically used for children; and via ferrata nascosta, a hidden, chimney-like variant that allows individuals to traverse otherwise-inaccessible spaces such as chimney flues. We create hula hoops, origami flowers, yoga-inspired exercise patterns, and jewelry-inspired beaded sculptures using beads, wire, and larkspur leaves. We also take classes, offer workshops, and teach one-on-one. NEW CLASS 3da54e8ca3
