[Rates of the diagnosis of dementia in patients with a hospitalized neoplasm: Collaborative study between 11 Spanish Hospitals]. In Spain, dementia is underdiagnosed in cancer patients. The aim of this study was to analyze the rates of dementia diagnosis in patients admitted for a cancer diagnosis. This was a multicenter observational study, conducted in 11 Spanish hospitals, between the years 2007 and 2012. It evaluated 1,498 patients aged ≥50 years admitted for a cancer diagnosis. The mean age of the patients was 67.8 years (40-97). 53.6% were female. The main causes of admission were lung cancer in 52.8% of cases. The mean time from hospital admission to a dementia diagnosis was 17.6 months (1-60). In 32.1% of cases, the diagnosis was made by a neurologist or a geriatrician. A dementia diagnosis was not performed before or during admission in 37% of the patients, and in 35% the diagnosis was made after discharge. The main symptoms that lead to the diagnosis are described in this study. Dementia is underdiagnosed in patients admitted for a cancer diagnosis. The rate of diagnosis was lower in women, in elderly patients, and in patients admitted with solid tumors than in the general population.
