Identification of spatial and temporal changes in the distribution of cells immunoreactive for neurotensin in the nucleus accumbens of the rat. Immunohistochemical examination of the nucleus accumbens of the rat revealed heterogeneity in the distribution of cells staining positively for neurotensin in both the shell and core of this nucleus. The distribution of these positive cells changed significantly in the nucleus accumbens over time as rats matured from 4- to 11-months of age. Although no marked alteration in the number of positive cells was observed in the nucleus accumbens of the mature animal, there was a striking increase in the density of cells immunoreactive for neurotensin in the shell of this nucleus. In contrast, the number of positive cells decreased markedly in the core of the nucleus accumbens and a dramatic loss of cells immunoreactive for neurotensin in the nucleus accumbens of the adult rat was observed. These results demonstrate that neurotensin-immunoreactive neurons in the nucleus accumbens are heterogeneous and provide a morphological basis for behavioral studies on the role of the nucleus accumbens in reward, mood, and other behaviors that may be mediated by the actions of neurotensin in this region of the brain. Cellulose nanocrystals: many potential applications. Cellulose nanocrystals (CNCs) are isolated from natural cellulose, either by an aqueous two-step process or a dilute sulfuric acid hydrolysis.

Typically, the cellulose nanocrystals have an aspect ratio of up to 1000 and lengths from 50 to 200 nm. The chemical structure is very similar to the natural cellulose. Due to their unique features, CNCs have many potential applications in the areas of nanomedic aa67ecbc25

- Discover how it's easy to keep track of car wash workers - One of the only business applications available that's easy to install and use - Keep track of customers and their contact info - Generate customized reports Car Wash Calendar Discussion Board How do you rate this product? * Car Wash Calendar Review By: Mollie Added On: 10/3/2014 Rating: I started using this application after purchasing and reviewing the Ultimate Car Wash Book. This application is a very helpful tool. I like having everything in one location and this saves me time. The only problem I had with this application is it is difficult to set up. If you add the option of a one time payment of $9.95 per month this application becomes more useful and the application has more options. However, it seems that to add more options you have to pay money. Car Wash Calendar Recommendation Added On: 7/10/2014 Rating: Took a little time to get to know how to use. Not a day planner, but easy to use. Car Wash Calendar Feature Requests Car Wash Calendar Feedback Added On: 7/10/2014 Rating: I use this software for my business only. It helps me organize and control the workers I am charging. It makes the job easier and i can make changes easier. This is more accurate than the day planner software to me. I like the idea of being able to send and receive new business to my database. I use a lot of Outlook to forward my new customer mail to my Car Wash Calendar database. I like that feature. I will use this application for my business only.
