The informational diversity, the diversity of content and the variety of content learning are the fundamental pre-conditions for successful learning and communication. For this reason, no system is able to deal sufficiently with all the facets of these fundamental pre-conditions. However, the project "Powered by Web and Education", which was performed by the University of Münster and Ernst-Moritz-Arndt-University Greifswald, is providing an innovative approach to a multidimensional and individual learning environment. The project provided the software NeuVirtu® to support and coordinate the individualized learning processes in groups and to unify and structure these curricula and individual learning processes.
