I download the latest macports with the command sudo port -v install macports but then when I run the command sudo port -v update I get a confirmation message that the macports update tool is already installed, but I have to manually run the command to install the new version. How do I make the macports tool update itself and provide the new command? Is there a command like "port -v update" similar to the command I used to install macports? I also am curious as to why it has taken me so long to run into this issue as I have been using macports for about a year now. I just assumed that my port sources were the latest version with the command, but obviously that is not the case. I appreciate the help. A: I think it's more of a problem that you are using the command without arguments: sudo port -v update instead of: sudo port -v update You may use the man page of port to see more details on the different options. And, I guess that to answer your questions on this: How do I make the macports tool update itself and provide the new command? If you use sudo port update, it updates all components. In this case, I guess that you are using port install, not port update. Is there a command like "port -v update" similar to the command Lused to
