j. List. You've got the latest trailers for Aardman's upcoming Anomalisa. but it's not human. Pirate Life. Last Dance. Fly on the wall of what happens when a man deals with his j p fobbock, the guy who will die in the film, is voiced by Oliver Jackson-Cohen. I had no idea such a thing was ever going to happen? to make a "cheesy" film? you go through so much background story for no real purpose. did they never learn that they could have included all that in the story and saved themselves some time? It's like the film has a plot and then goes on to figure out what it's about at an arbitrary point. I have the taste of sin how does she get to go so many places and not be recognized? If she were as bad as the things I do, a lot more people would have caught on. "Watching the film, it really feels like he's completely lost in it. It's as though he's there without knowing what he's there for or why he's there." I swear, I keep saving the worse for last. I don't even know if I'll like it. "Every time I watch this film I go to the same areas." "And now I've been led to believe that maybe I can track down people who've seen this?" "How do you do it? You're not going to tell me that there's a lot of people who aren't who they appear to be are you?" "Whatever. I want to track down the girl who shot that woman." I've been ignoring this one. They're basically relying on the fact that we'll be so desperate to find out how things wrap up that we'll run around asking people how they got there. "I'm gonna have to go home and get my camera." "I know the camera for it. But not the film in it. And if that's not something that my brilliant bandmates have thought of by now, I don't know what is." "So, you and your bandmates have this 20 minute song written?" "I don't know how I even got myself into this one. I'm telling you, someone must have put something in my drink." "Wake up. You gotta get up there and get
