The film, directed by Lothar Merz, and produced by the Swedish National Theatre, was released on January 10, 1980. The film is noteworthy for being the last Swedish film with a predominantly Swedish cast (most other films feature an international cast). The film was given the prize for best film in Sweden's film festival, August Schoellkopf's film festival and Sandrews film festival. (Borkman) "I was walking home, and, since it was so hot, I was just thinking about how nice it was to walk through the streets and see the people, at that time of the day when it's cold outside. Numerous devices are known in the prior art for cleaning and sterilizing items such as, for example, glassware, dishes, utensils, and the like. A wide variety of forms of cleaning and sterilizing apparatus are available. Virtually all such prior art devices require one or more continuous or intermittent users to complete the operations of cleaning and/or sterilizing an item of glassware. It has been known to provide a device having a hand-held housing suitable for cleaning the other hand to hold the glass item to be cleaned. Such an arrangement increases the cost and complexity of the device while reducing the mobility of the user. It also limits the user to only one operation, and it has been found to be uneconomical to provide such devices for simultaneous cleaning and sterilizing operations. "I don't care."
