Downloads: The.Man arrested after accusing cop of stealing his pills An Oregon man has been arrested after accusing a sheriff's deputy of stealing his prescription medication. McMinn County Sheriff Mike Chitwood said a man reached out to the sheriff's office last week to report that he had stopped to pick up medication and noticed someone had recently stolen it. Deputies set up surveillance and spotted a deputy driving off with the man's prescription. Investigators said they traced the prescription back to the sheriff's office and found out they had confiscated it from a drug take back program. Officials said the man approached the deputy and accused him of stealing the drugs. The deputy was immediately suspended, and the man was arrested. He faces charges of obstructing a police officer. The sheriff's office said if someone suspects they have their medication stolen from the sheriff's office, they should file a report with dispatch so an investigation can begin.Newly crowned ROH World Television Champion, Matt Taven, the first ever ROH World Champion since 2014, will be moving on in 2017, making his farewell performance in Ring of Honor this Friday night in Nashville, TN. To detect virus-associated tumor antigens on the tumor cell surface and to analyze the immunogenicity of the E6 oncoprotein for CIN patients. A protein microarray test was performed with the human proteome microarray using antibodies to E6 proteins and biotin-labeled HPV type 16 E7 proteins from CIN patients. The new E6 neoantigen was detected in the serum of four patients with CIN III and one patient with CIN III. The neoantigens were detected in the presence of E7 oncoprotein. Thus, the E6 protein was detected by antibody against a form of E6 with HLA-A*0201-binding domain and E7 by antibody against an immunodominant epitope, and the serum of immunized mice against CIN II-derived tumor cell was detected by the new E6 neoantigen. The new tumor antigen identified in this study could be a potential target of antibodies for the development of cancer vaccines.Pancreatic cancer in children and adults--a disease of Western industrial society. Pancreatic cancer is the 10th most common neoplasm in the United States and the 5th most common cause of cancer death, and more than 70% of the cases occur in adults. Survival is 10-12% at five years. The prognosis is poor because pancreatic cancer is diagnosed late in advanced stages. Of the pancreatic malignancies, the most common form is the ductal adenocarcinoma (more than 85% of pancreatic malignancies), followed by the endocrine carcinoma (1-5%). Most patients have distant metastases at the time of diagnosis. The most common site of metastases is the liver. The clinical stage is the most important prognostic indicator,
