Image editing has become an integral part of contemporary culture. Over the past 20 years, the sophistication and sophistication of image editing tools has increased dramatically. With programs such as Photoshop, digital cameras, smart phones, and tablet computers making it easier to manipulate images, image editing is now a common part of everyone's life. On this page, you'll learn what Photoshop is and some useful resources to help you get started learning how to use this powerful image editing tool. What is Photoshop? Photoshop, which is part of Adobe's Creative Cloud suite, is the world's most popular image-editing program. It has been the industry standard image editing program for so long that it has practically entered our language. For example, the common phrase "I'll photoshop that" means that the image is going to be edited. If you have been browsing online for images for inspiration, you may have come across the term "photo stock" before. Many of the online stock photo sites offer images that you can purchase on a royalty-free basis. Adobe Photoshop enables you to manipulate and combine these images for your own purposes. It uses a layer-based editing system that enables raster image creation and altering with multiple overlays that support transparency. It is common parlance to say that an image has been "photoshopped," or even just

"shopped," meaning that it's been edited or manipulated. Adobe promotes Photoshop as a tool for professionals. However, beginners can use Photoshop as well with many helpful tutorials on the market that train users in how to use Photoshop's various features. Adobe's Photoshop is

Adobe Photoshop is a desktop-only piece of software. However, you can use the same elements on a website to make image galleries. Here, we'll show you how to: Make an image gallery that works on both desktop and mobile Installing Lightbox Writing a lightbox Putting it together Using a lightbox Translating the code Adding a button for the gallery to be opened from Facebook This tutorial is for Windows and Mac. If you want to get the code and learn how to make this work on mobile, please read it through. Installing Lightbox In this tutorial, we'll use the Lightbox plugin. You can install the plugin using the following command: Plugins > Get new plugins > Browse other plugins and select the Lightbox plugin. Configuration If you don't have the Lightbox plugin installed, you'll be prompted to do so. You may be prompted for a link or URL to your repository of plugins. If you don't have one, you can generate one using the command line: For Mac users: `$ git clone /plugins.git lightbox`

$ For Windows users: `$ git clone git://github.com/psdplugin/plugins.git lightbox` $

Then, enter the command: Plugins > Upload and update Plugins Writing a lightbox Lightbox is a popup tool for displaying images. This popup window will be hidden after the user clicks on a link. However, the popup will be open by default, so we need to keep track of the window and close it when the user leaves the gallery. First, let's create a new document: We'll also add a panel to the top of the document to have a place to add content, position the popup and the buttons for the gallery. We will use Divi, a site builder for WordPress, to manage all of this. After creating the document and adding a panel, click on the Add new panel button in the top toolbar. Next, scroll down to the bottom of the menu that opens and click on the 2nd panel button, which is the Divi panel. Name your panel "Lightbox". Add a widget. Label the widget "Lightbox". 05a79cecff

Q: mysql - reference foreign key in where clause I have 2 mysql tables, topics topic_id 1 2 posts post_id 1 2 3 I have 2 entities, Topic public class Topic { @Id @Column(name = "topic_id", nullable = false) @GeneratedValue(strategy = GenerationType.IDENTITY) @Basic(fetch = FetchType.EAGER) private int topicId; @OneToMany(fetch = FetchType.LAZY, mappedBy = "topicId", cascade = CascadeType.ALL) private List posts = new ArrayList(); //Getters setters } Post public class Post { @Id @Column(name = "post_id", nullable = false) @GeneratedValue(strategy = GenerationType.IDENTITY) @Basic(fetch = FetchType.EAGER) private int postId; @ManyToOne(fetch = FetchType.LAZY) @JoinColumn(name = "topicId", nullable = false) private Topic topic; //Getters setters } Here, I have a post that has topicId = 2, it should only be shown when topicId = 2 and count > 0 I have used aggregate functions SELECT topics.topicId, topics.topic, count(posts.postId) as postCount, count(posts.postId) > 0 as postCountNotZero FROM posts JOIN topics ON topics.topicId = posts.topicId GROUP BY topics.topicId HAVING count(posts.postId) > 0 this works for me. But what I want is, SELECT topics.topicId, topics.topic, count(posts.postId) as postCount, count(posts.
