We Must be Ready for All Kinds of Cyber Risks Whether the source of risk comes from an external entity such as a hacker or a self-generated malware, it doesn't matter, the consequences will be the same. We must be ready to defend against such exploits, which is why we are installing the most advanced malware detection solutions available on the market. We are also hiring specialists with experience in building and supporting our highly-reliable and well-known intrusion prevention system, to share their expertise with our security specialists on how to protect our customers' data from such attacks. Besides the defense, it is important to have a way to monitor and track security risks so that if a breach is detected, we can act quickly on it and manage it effectively. One of the most powerful options we have is an easy-to-use, economical yet powerful system that provides us with insights into the traffic, usage and access to our servers. We are sure this is the right choice for you.
