The internet is the fastest and most economical way to both obtain and share knowledge. Content aggregators, the news, blogs, social media, video hosting services, wikis are all different ways to share knowledge. There are numerous reasons to have a password for your account â€" it is there primarily to protect you. You are the only one who knows your password and therefore, all your private information is secure. Each account, however, has a place in the community. Those accounts are represented by a username which can be used to login into the wiki. Your wiki username and password are linked to your account. Only you have access to your private information. Whenever you login you must type in your login and password. How to login Logging in to wikivoyage.org The information required to log in to wikivoyage.org is your user name and password. The user name is your username, the password is the same one you use to access your wiki account. You can also use your e-mail address but this option is less secure. If you have been invited to join wikivoyage.org and you have not yet received an e-mail, please check your spam filters. We will then resend your invitation. If you have an account but don't log in to wikivoyage.org anymore, please remove your old account with its login details and your password. This way, we can close it. How to log in to wikivoyage.org If you have forgotten your username or password you can use the â€~Forgotten username/password?' link to recover the user name and password. Be aware that the username/password recovery form is only for the â€~lost user name/password' problem and is not intended to be used to gain access to wiki accounts.
