Norway has an embassy in Yerevan. Armenia has an embassy in Oslo. Both countries are full members of the Council of Europe, the European Union and the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe. History Armenian merchant in the 17th century.

He came from Baku to Trondheim and sold Armenian textiles. In the late 18th century, a small Armenian community began to emerge in Trondheim. The first child of Armenian origin was born there in 1775. Norwegian and Armenian merchants established trade relations, because they had a common interest in Baku and Baku was under British control in 1813. In 1823 the first Armenian from Baku came to Norway. In the 1880s, Armenian merchants were among the early Jewish-Russian Jews moving to Finland. In Trondheim one of the first Russian Jews to arrive in Trondheim was Hovsep Selioeff. In 1881 he opened the first Russian Jewish settlement in Trondheim. His son, Karl Selioeff, was a prominent Finnish Jewish-Russian historian and writer. Trade relations between Armenia and Norway date back to the 1880s, but during World War II Norway sold weapons to Armenians.
